- 1) Initial Translation: Assign jobs to our native translators, during this stage, we ask them to list any questions they have for answers.
- 2) Independent Review: Assign the initially translated files to an independent reviewer for editing and proofreading, she will complete the QA Report, it's an automatically assessing system, clients and CCJK will judge intuitively if the job is qualified.
- 3) Q & A: We collect and filter all questions and send to clients, then feedback our Italian translators with the answered queries, perform a final proofreading to the translation to assure everything is OK.
- 4) Final PM reviewing: when we modify all questions, our professional project manager will do final reviewing of whole content, to guarantee no grammar and type mistakes.

For client reading convenience, the final product is done in bilingual format, the client is very satisfied with our job and they highly appreciate our efforts.

From the beginning to the end, we spent a lot of time and energy on this project, we are pleased to say that our purpose is not to earn much money from this project, the client's trust is more important than anything else. We are the first consideration when they have translation projects.
